

Reporting process

Ministering Persons

When to follow this process

This process must be followed each time a ministering person receives information, has knowledge of, or reasonably suspects that a child under the age of 18 years has been abused, or is being groomed for abuse. This process assists ministering persons to identify their reporting obligations for concerns and matters relating to:

- current neglect and/or abuse of children
- previous abuse of children who are now adults, and
- abuse committed by children.

R.E.S.P.O.N.D. process and checklist

Note: the order of the steps may vary depending on the particular circumstances and situation.

Reassure	Reassure the person: 'I'm glad you told me'; 'It's important for this to be addressed' or similar words that welcome the information.
Ensure	Ensure immediate danger has been addressed. If there is imminent danger call 000.
Statement	Statement template must be completed with detailed notes. Do not investigate. Record those to whom you have reported your concerns, both within and outside the church. Take notes as you go. Keep a copy for yourself and provide a copy to the church. Ensure notes are secured and kept confidential.
Plan	Plan your next actions. Complete the reporting threshold test below to help plan the appropriate action.
Obligations	Obligations to report to both statutory and church authorities must be met. Reporting is mandatory under Churches of Christ in Queensland policy. (Complete the reporting threshold test before moving on to this step).
Needs	Needs for practical assistance and referral should be attended to. The reporting and referral guide below will assist you to find the contact details.
Debrief	Debrief appropriately.

NOTE: in the event of a reportable incident involving a child, follow the reporting process, and notify the parent or guardian, unless they are the alleged offender.

Section 2: Referring

Referring families for ongoing professional support

In cases where the concern is not taken up by the Child Safety Regional Intake Service (RIS) a family may require additional support and assistance to address challenges they face. With their permission, you may support families or individuals to access the support services of Family and Child Connect (FCC) or Intensive Family Support Services (IFSS).

IFSS provides active intervention for families with multiple or complex needs. FCC is a central referral point for families and professionals to link families and children to appropriate support services. Contact with IFSS and FCC can be made by phone on 13 FAMILY or online communities.qld.gov.au/childsafety

Services provided by FCC and IFSS are according to residential zones. If a service is not available in the child's residential zone, contact your local Child Safety Regional Intake Service to discuss your concerns.

Referring to the National Redress Scheme

Survivors of child sexual abuse in a church institution may be eligible to apply for redress. Survivors should be encouraged to speak with the National Redress Scheme:

T: 1800 737 377

Monday to Friday 8.00am – 5.00pm
